

ZAREMBA RESIDENTIAL COMPANY

November 10, 2009

To Whom It May Concern:

As Regional Director of Residential Development for Zaremba Group, LLC, it has been my pleasure working with Gary Haygood and The Haygood Group for the last 4 years. Zaremba Group is an 80-year old, private, national commercial and residential development company. To date, Zaremba Residential Company, through its affiliates, has developed over 20,000 residential multifamily units throughout the US. In southwest Florida, the Company currently has over 1000 units currently under construction.

The Haygood Group has been an absolute key design consultant for Zaremba Residential Company in Florida and I would highly recommend this company to those seeking creative, quality landscape architecture and land planning services.

Gary Haygood brought us creative and fresh ideas for our luxury apartment and condominium projects in the southwest Florida markets and we believe those ideas have added value for our residents and partners. For example, our Vintage Lofts at West End apartment project located in Tampa, FL required particularly creative and quality design in four distinctive courtyards that were surrounded by multifamily residential units. The results at this project exceeded our expectations and were delivered within our moderate budget constraints.

The Haygood Group has designed numerous projects for the Zaremba Residential Company and during all such engagements, we experienced principal-level leadership and design production from this firm. Gary personally presented schematic designs that were consistent with our overall design themes and within the realm of the project's targeted goals and budgets. He also personally attended our key design coordination meetings (oftentimes on very short notice) with other design professionals and was more than accommodating when changes were required during the design phase. One factor that differentiates The Haygood Group from other landscape architecture firms is their attention to detail. Construction documents have proven to be solid and well coordinated with the other design disciplines allowing our general contractor to comprehensively bid our projects and obtain consistent bid pricing from its subcontractors.

We at Zaremba Residential Company have experienced a very high level of design complemented by a very high level of service from The Haygood Group.

Sincerely,

Nicholas Husak
Regional Director of Residential Development
